The staff did a great job of reaching out to students and finding out about technology abilities in the home and if students weren't able to go to school, learning could still happen. The staff at Seward El did a wonderful job of meeting the needs of each of the students during this COVID-19 situation. I believe this was a perfect opportunity to engage parents and enhance the communication between parents/students/teacher. I helped many teachers to grow in their communication and it helped students take ownership in their Learning.	Advancing

Key Discussion Questions: - In what ways do our instructional strategies create rigor in the classroom? - How well does do our metrics measure student performance? - Is student growth and success determined through multiple measures of learning? - What steps might we take to increase the rigor of our classrooms?		With the COVID-19 Pandemic it put us all into a vortex that caused us to flip the education of our students upside down. Teachers were needing to make videos and lesson plans that involved technology for students to learn the content. Teachers had to come up with alternate ways to assess students via a virtual learning environment. The rigor the 4th quarter was less than we had hoped if we were in the school building, however, with the shift to Virtual Learning and a 96% participation rate I feel we were successful in creating a rigorous learning situation for our students.
